Question Design: Interviewing

Step One
Take five minutes and respond to this question: what are two or three things you remember from our reading about questions that seem useful to you in terms of writing up your interview or survey questions?

Step Two
Share the responses in groups of three, and then do the following: take about seven minutes and come up with three good questions for an interview that one of you might do in your group. Then get ready to pose those questions to me, in the role of “Dr. Knowitall.”
