

EMERGENCY POOL - TEACHING POSITIONS 2014 UCSB WRITING PROGRAM

Applications are invited for anticipated and unanticipated full- and part-time academic teaching positions in the UCSB Writing Program. Lecturers teach lower- and upper-division courses, including introductory writing courses and advanced writing courses focusing on writing for academic, professional, and civic contexts. The Writing Program also has a writing minor with four emphases. Writing Program lecturers are integrally involved in program governance, development, and innovation. Professional development is supported and expected. The program is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and service.

Applicants should possess a PhD or equivalent terminal degree and have experience teaching college-level writing courses; exceptions may be made for comparable experience. Terms and conditions of employment are subject to UC policy and any appropriate Collective Bargaining agreement.

Successful applicants will join a thriving independent writing program in a research university committed to undergraduate education. UC Santa Barbara has been ranked as one of the top 25 research universities in the world and includes nationally- and internationally-recognized programs in the humanities, sciences, and engineering. Located in California's Central Coast, UC Santa Barbara provides high-quality education in a beautiful setting.

Please see our website (www.writing.ucsb.edu) for a complete description of the program. Questions about the position may be directed to AP Coordinator at 805-893-3479, or the Program Director.

Applications will be accepted until October 31, 2014. Please complete the application process at: <https://recruit.ap.ucsb.edu/apply/JPF00388>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment with regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, or any other characteristic protected by law including Veterans and individuals with disabilities.